Senior Class History

Bill Ewings, vice-president; Mary Quinlan, secretary; Jane Miller, treasurer; Connie Fischer, president.

The class of '68 started its high school career as seventy ambitious freshmen. Elected to office that year were Joe Mittermeyer, president; Rick Knez, vice-president; Judy Richards, secretary; and Kathy Raatz, treasurer. The first attempted Homecoming float, "Sure Shot for Victory," received a third place rating. As attendant to the queen, Mary Quinlan represented the class in the Homecoming court. Rick Knez, elected Prom attendant that year, escorted Joanne LeMay. As freshmen, class members enjoyed participating in the many activities open to high school students.

Sixty-five students entered their sophomore year at CHS and won a third with their Homecoming float, "Register a Victory." Chosen as Homecoming attendant was Patsy Stempel. Marianne Paulsen and Dennis Reeve represented the class as Prom attendants. Confidently leading the class through the year were the officers Rick Knez, president; Chris Frenzel, vice-president; Jane Miller, secretary; and Connie Fischer, treasurer.

At the beginning of the junior year John Harvatine was elected class president, Glenn Baldeshwiler vice-president, Sharon Diamond secretary, and Rick Knez treasurer. The Homecoming float, "A Job Well Done," apparently wasn't too well done, since it received fourth place in competition. Kathy Raatz was the attendant to the Homecoming queen. Putting forth its greatest efforts, the class presented the 1967 Junior Prom, "Roman Splendor." Queen Donna Popple and King Mike Yohnk reigned over this, the highlight of the year.

Starting their last year at CHS, the seniors finally won a first place with their float, "Crickets: Breakfast of Champions." King Cleo Hoel and Queen Diane Goltz reigned over the Homecoming festivities. Class officers did an excellent job in guiding the class through the activities and responsibilities of a busy senior year. Officers were Connie Fischer, president; Bill Ewings, vice-president; Mary Quinlan, secretary and Jane Miller, treasurer. The annual mid-winter dance, the Sno-Ball, was presented by the class, who elected Rick Knez king. He chose June Buresh to be his queen. Under the editorship of Mary Quinlan, the class produced this 1968 Reflector as a lasting memento of its stay in CHS. Graduating in E.J. Mittermeyer auditorium, sixty seniors accepted their diplomas and prepared to face the challenge of the future.

The Pep Club is made up of students who spur our boys on to victory by cheering at sports activities. The members get into the spirit of things during a pep session (left). A new activity has been cheering through the halls during the last school hour on game nights (lower left).

Officers who direct the activities of the club are (lower right) Mary Quinlan, president; Connie Fischer, point-recorder; Nancy Anderson, secretary-treasurer; and June Buresh, point-recorder.

C-Club

Our letter-winners work hard to give our school an athletic reputation we can be proud of. These boys sell popcorn at games to raise the money used to purchase the Seniors' sweaters (at right) and, this year, blazers. The officers really looked sharp in theirs (top left), but then there are exceptions!!! (top right).

F.H.A.

The Future Homemakers of America organization is made up of Home Economics students who strive to put into practice the qualities of good housekeeping and home management through their FHA activities. Some of these activities include the annual Sadie Hawkins dance and candle sale. This year they sponsored a Kaffee Klach (right).

The Future Farmers of America organization is made up of vocational agriculture students who learn new and improved methods of farm management through regular class work, shop work, and cattle and soil judging contests during the school year.

Shown at the right are the boys who won a trophy at this year's cattle judging contest.

Some of the boys participate in the annual summer conference at Green Lake, Wisconsin. Some also participate in the Trees-for-Tomorrow conservation camp at Eagle River, Wisconsin.

Hi-Lites

Published monthly during the school year, the HI-LITES is the high school newspaper. Under the editorship of Jane Miller (seated on top right with advisers, Mr. Bader and Mrs. Arnhold), the editorial staff (standing, top right) helps direct the work of the entire staff (center). Gathering information, writing the articles, and assembling the paper are co-operative ventures of the entire group. The sophomores (above, left) make posters to advertise the next issue. Checking stories and reading proofs (below) is a necessary part of the work.

The Student Council-Student Service members are classmates we elected to represent us in planning class activities. Some of the group's activities include taking tickets at athletic events (right) and setting up dates for school events. This year the group also worked on a revision of the school's dress code.

Half-time Entertainment

Performances given by the various gymnastic organizations within the school provided half-time entertainment for home basketball games during the year. These organizations, under the direction of Miss Jensen, girls' physical education teacher, are the Tumbling Team (top and center), the Trampoline Team (bottom left), and the Horse Team (bottom right), relaxing with cokes after a practice session.

Marilyn Reeve, All-State Orchestra Participant.

Concert

The Cornell High School Band began its year by providing pre-game and half-time entertainment at all home football games. These performances were planned and organized by President Vicki Sargent, Vice-President Connie Fischer, and Secretary-Treasurer Marianne Paulsen. On parents' night, the band made their outstanding appearance of the season. They marched into the formation of each instrument and honored it with an appropriate song.

Band

Librarians Chris Shearman and Vicki Dumholt. President Vicki Sargent, Vice-President Connie Fischer, Secretary-Treasurer Marianne Paulsen.

The next responsibility of band members was to provide a "pep band" for basketball games and wrestling matches. This was part of the booster program for spirit in the school. The Christmas concert was the band's next job. The senior girls in band were in charge of planning the songs to be played. The sections of the music department who performed were the concert band and chorus, and a flute duet by Patti Paulsen and Karen Guzman.

talents to decorate the stage for the bright and gala scene of "Santa's Workshop."

Once the Christmas Concert was over, the chorus concentrated on working up their numbers for Festival held a Menomonie, and individuals practiced for their Solo-Ensemble selections which were judged on April 6.

ACTIVITIES

Roman Splendor
Junior Prom of '67

Newly crowned King and Queen reign over the prom.

Donna Popple, I crown you Queen!

Mike Yohnk, I crown you King!

SENIOR ATTENDANTS: Karen Falbe and Jerry Clark.

Couples enjoy Grand March.

SOPHOMORE ATTENDANTS: Sue Ramminger and Tom Rufledt.

FRESHMAN ATTENDANTS: Wendy Stassel and Allen Imbery.

Mike Yohnk and Donna Popple reigned as King and Queen of the 1967 Junior Prom on April 27, 1967.

Entering through the Arc of Triumph, those attending the dance witnessed a Roman atmosphere of pillars and shields.

Music by the "Biggest Little Band" added a finishing touch to an evening enjoyed by all.

Mark Beighley and Jane Anderson served as crown bearers.

Eagerly awaiting the Grand March.

Refreshments attract students.

Pergola surrounds sundial.

Mary Wajek and Joanne LeMay decorate for the prom.

Music was provided by the "Biggest Little Band".

Assemblies

The students and faculty enjoyed several programs this year. On Oct. 2, 1967, a gymnast performed. He demonstrated stunts on the trampoline, the side horse, and the parallel bars. He also demonstrated the teaching of these skills.

Veteran's Day was held on Nov. 11. This was conducted by the local American Legion. Guest speakers were Mr. Harold Halverson, Fr. John Niles, and Mayor Arnold Koepp.

GREG HALVERSON

EUGENE MATACZYNSKI

PETE PRIEM

Much of the students leisure time is spent at the Purple Palace Youth Center, commonly called the "Gob".

Greg enters into the scene of popular music, pinball machines, pool tables, coke machines and other students.

Gene shoots pool as Gail and Sandy look on, admiring his form.

"Things go better with coke"! At least Larry seems to think so!

The walls of the "Gob", painted by students and Mrs. Velda Schmidt, proprietor, cause much interest. Here you see Dave and Greg helping paint. The psychedelic paintings are flowers, "love", "Expand your mind and yourself", and the ten commandments of the Gob, pertaining to such things as students' manners and behavior.

Hard working Brent Hurlburt.

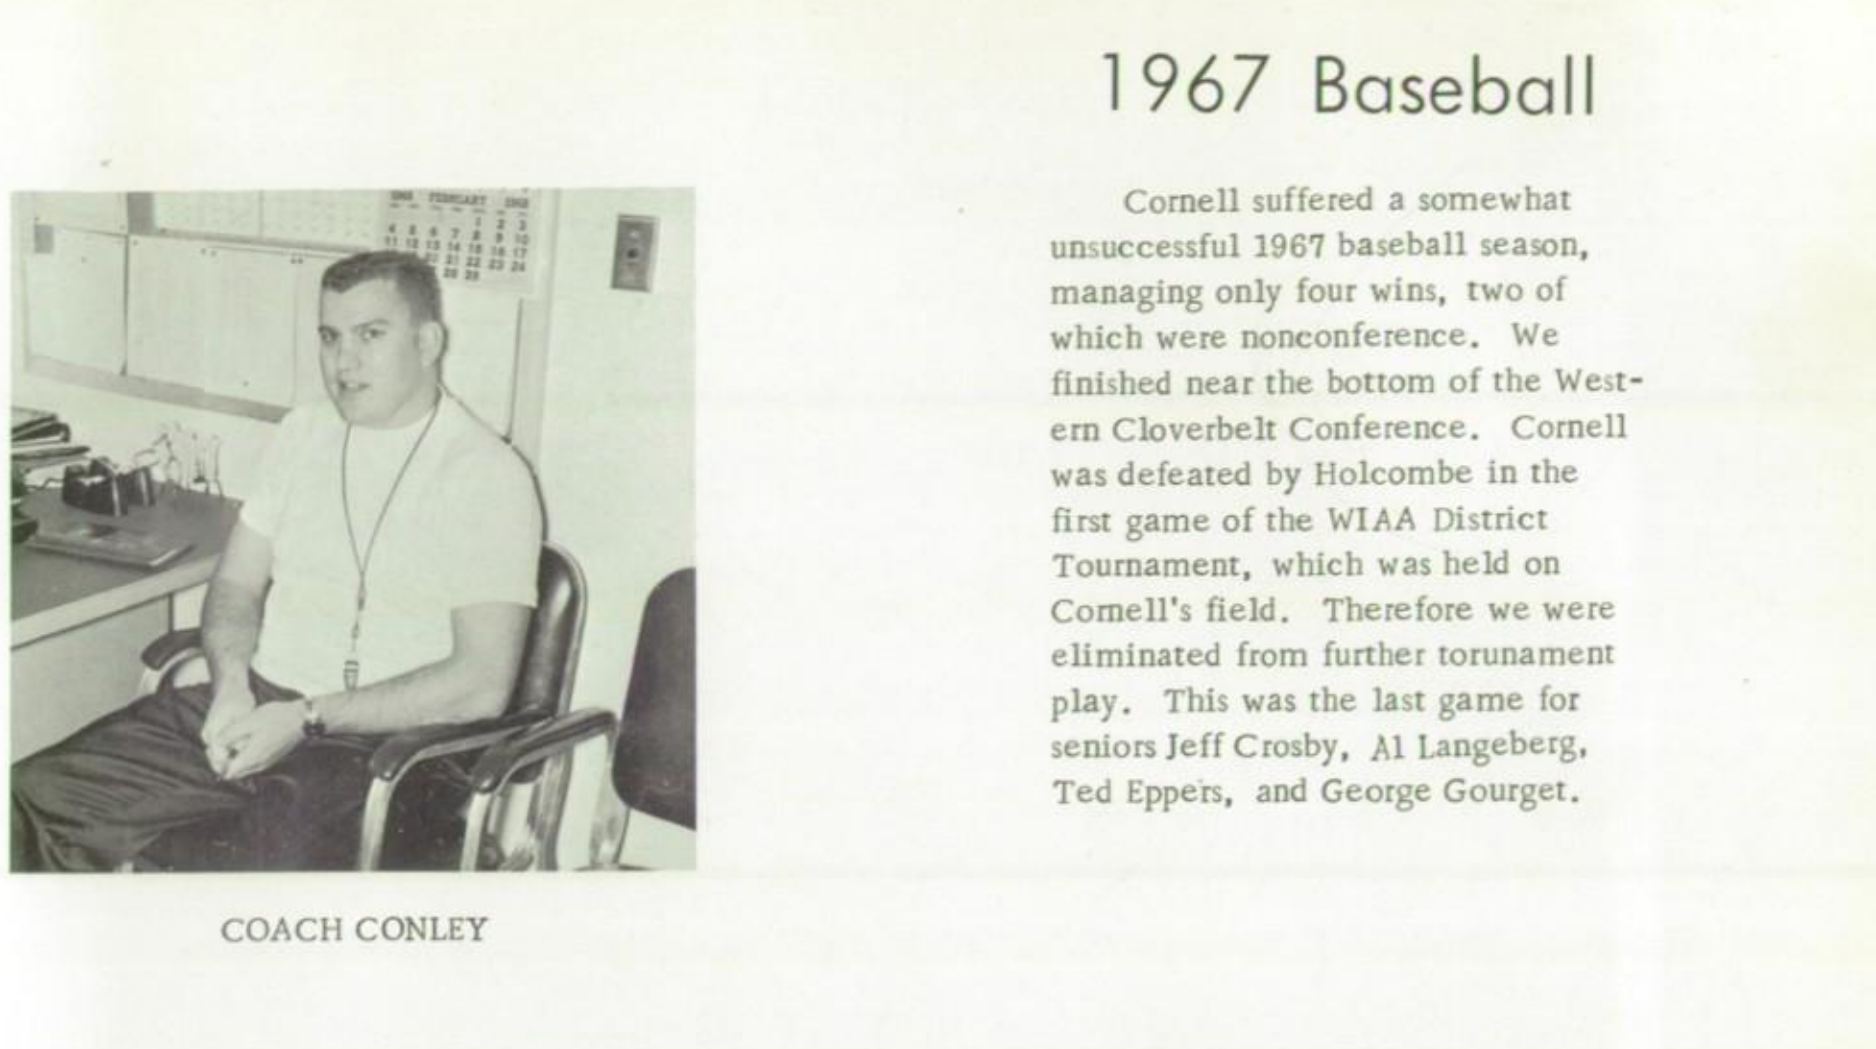
COACH CONLEY

Cornell suffered a somewhat unsuccessful 1967 baseball season, managing only four wins, two of which were nonconference. We finished near the bottom of the Western Cloverbelt Conference. Cornell was defeated by Holcombe in the first game of the WIAA District Tournament, which was held on Cornell's field. Therefore we were eliminated from further torunament play. This was the last game for seniors Jeff Crosby, Al Langeberg, Ted Eppers, and George Gourget.



STANDING: Richard Sarauer, Dave Fitzpatrick, Ted Eppers, Tim Ash, Gene Mataczynski, Ron Stempel, George Bourget, Keith Seidlitz. SITTING: Mgr. John Schwab, Tom Smith, Joe Mittermeyer, Jeff Crosby, Al Langeberg, Rick Knez, Dennis Dahlby, Bob Ellis.

Cornell entered the Regional Tournament at Menominee. Four Cornell boys, Mike Ouimet 95#, Terry Schemenauer 103#, Rick Hurlburt 138#, and Don Klass 145#, earned berths in the Sectional Tournament at Rice Lake. Here, Rick Hurlburt fought hard to place second and gain a trip to the State Tourney at Madison, where he was defeated in the first round by the eventual third place winner.

With high hopes for a Wisconsin Rapids sectional berth, the Chiefs breezed through their own district meet by defeating Holcombe and arch-rival Altoona to move on to the Thorp Regional tourney. The Chiefs were pointed for Loyal, who had defeated them 84-81 in double overtime for the Cloverbelt championship. After three quarters of a very close ball game, the Chiefs forged ahead to a very satisfying thirteen-point win, 64-51. In the finals, the game that was to determine the Wisconsin Rapids sectional entrant, Cornell trailed Neillsville by nine points at half-time. They very quickly closed the gap in the third quarter and led briefly by one point. A few costly turnovers and a stretch of cold shooting permitted Neillsville to take a commanding thirteen-point lead with four minutes to play. The Chiefs narrowed the gap to seven with two minutes to go, but could not close in on the fired up Warriors, and therefore bowed out of competition with a nine-point loss, 75-66, and a total season record of seventeen wins and five losses.
